

Bite The Hand That Feeds Me
(Puppy Version)

Written By: Vaporeon Lugia Krabby

These are the thoughts of your loyal puppy
who is tied up in your backyard.
Now master feeds stale kibble to me
but sometimes he will forget.
Master's son is suppose to play with me
yet he all he does is threat.
The neighbor's kids show up to gawk at me
and laugh when I can't do a trick.
Sometimes strangers toss treats for me
but will always leave really quick.

These are the wishes of your loyal puppy
who is crying in your backyard.
Your puppy would like a proper meal
and your puppy would like to play.
Your puppy would like some decent training
and your puppy would like you to stay.
But if you abuse your puppy
and threat it like a miserable hound;
then watch out when your puppy isn't a puppy
because your dog will rip your hand off!

Bite The Hand That Feeds Me
(Employee Version)

These are the thoughts of your loyal employee who is tied down to their job.
Now the owner gives minimum wage to me
but sometimes he will forget.
The HR is suppose to arrange days off with me
yet all he does is threat.
The coworkers show up to gawk at me
and laugh when I can't do something right.
Sometimes commissioners give bonuses to me
but that amount is always light.

These are the wishes of your loyal employee who is crying about their job.
Your employee would like a proper wage
and your employee would like a free day.

Your employee would like some better training
and your employee wants more say.
But if you abuse your employee
and treat them like a lowly slave;
then watch out when your employee isn't an employee
because your ex-employee will sue your ***!